FUND MANAGER'S COMMENTS

- Global stocks gained in most major currencies except sterling in July. Investors were encouraged as major economies unveiled more stimulus to bolster growth. In the US, lawmakers proposed a US$1 trillion Covid-19 assistance package which comprised direct payments to citizens, loans to help small businesses and incentives for companies to produce personal protective equipment in the US. Elsewhere, the European Union agreed to raise US$857 billion from financial markets to support member states and sectors affected most by the pandemic.
- However, resurgence in infections across the world tempered markets' advance. Geopolitical tensions between China and the US also continued to simmer. Beijing closed the US consulate in Chengdu in response to the shutting down of the Chinese consulate in Houston. In key data, the US economy contracted at its sharpest pace on record versus the previous year in the second quarter, reflecting the severe toll which nationwide lockdowns had on business activity. Similarly, preliminary figures showed that the euro zone economy shrank at a record rate during the period too.
- In fund-related news, drugmaker Pfizer, along with its peer Moderna, commenced late-stage trials which could lead to accelerated regulatory approval in the US and widespread treatment by year-end. If successful, Pfizer will supply vaccines for 50 million people to the US government for US$2 billion.
- Meanwhile, shares of chipmakers TSMC and Samsung Electronics surged after US rival Intel said production of its latest 7-nanometer chip technology was delayed and that it planned to outsource some production.
- Meanwhile, Spanish fashion retailer Inditex will invest up to US$3.2 billion to ramp up its digital transformation strategy over 2020-2022. This comes after online sales supported its recent earnings during the Covid-19 pandemic which saw most of its stores shut temporarily.
- During the month, we took some profits from Taiwan-based TSMC following recent share-price strength.

RISKS

All investment carries some form of risks. The potential key risks include but are not limited to the following:

Market risk	Market risk refers to potential losses that may arise from changes in the market prices of the Shariah-compliant equities that the target fund invests in. Prices of the Shariah-compliant equities will fluctuate in response to various factors, for example, events or news that relates to the Shariah-compliant equities as well as general market or economic conditions. In mitigating this risk, Aberdeen Islamic will invest in various sectors, thus the collapse of any particular sector would not have a major adverse impact on the value of the target fund.
Stock specific risk	Any drop in the price of a particular Shariah-compliant stock held by the target fund may affect the unit price of the target fund adversely. This risk can be mitigated by investing in a wide range of Shariah-compliant equities in different sectors, thus spreading the element of risk.
Concentration risk	This risk refers to the risk that the target fund invests a substantial portion of its assets in a particular sector or geographical area which may cause the target fund to be more susceptible to adverse economic events affecting that particular industry or region. This risk is mitigated through the diversification process that Aberdeen Islamic will employ in the management of the target fund whereby the target fund will hold a diversified portfolio of Shariah-compliant equities across various sectors and countries.
Reclassification of Shariah status risk	This risk refers to the risk that the currently held Shariah-compliant equities in the portfolio of the target fund may be reclassified as Shariah non-compliant during the periodic review of the securities by the SACSC, the Shariah Adviser or the Shariah Boards of the relevant Islamic indices. If this occurs, Aberdeen Islamic will take the necessary steps to dispose of such securities. A stock may be reclassified as being Shariah non-compliant, for example, if the company decides to venture into businesses that do not comply with the Shariah and this is beyond the control of Aberdeen Islamic. The impact of this risk on the value of the target fund is mitigated through the diversification process (as described under concentration risk above) that Aberdeen Islamic will employ in the management of the target fund. When the target fund holds a diversified portfolio of Shariah-compliant equities across various sectors and countries, a reclassification of any one of those Shariah-compliant equities (which means that the target fund will have to dispose of the said investment) will have less of an impact on the target fund as the target fund will still have in its portfolio other high quality Shariah-compliant equities to enable it to meet its objective.
Shariah-compliant warrants risk	The price, performance and liquidity of Shariah-compliant warrants are typically linked to the underlying Shariah-compliant equities and therefore subject to those risks. However, the price, performance and liquidity of such Shariah-compliant warrants will generally fluctuate more than the underlying Shariah-compliant equities because of the greater volatility of the warrants market.

RISKS (CONTINUED)

Currency risk

The NAV attributable to a class of units expressed in a particular currency may be affected favourably or unfavourably by exchange control regulations or changes in the exchange rates between the Ringgit Malaysia (i.e., the base currency of the target fund) and those currencies. When the base currency and the currency of a particular class of units are different, unfavourable movements against those units in foreign exchange rates may affect the value of those units. The valuations of international Shariah-compliant equities owned by the target fund (i.e. those companies owned that are listed outside of Malaysia) may also be affected favourably or unfavourably by exchange control regulations or changes in the exchange rates between the Ringgit Malaysia (i.e., the base currency of the target fund) and the currencies that these equities are quoted in on their respective resident stock exchanges.

Emerging countries and developing markets risk

In emerging markets, the legal, judicial and regulatory infrastructure is still developing and there are more legal uncertainties both for the local market participants and their overseas counterparts. Some markets carry significant risks for investors. Investors should therefore ensure that they understand the relevant risks involved by seeking independent professional investment advice before investing. The target fund will invest a minimum of 1% in emerging markets. The emerging market countries that the target fund will initially invest in will be Korea, Taiwan and Brazil. As the countries' classification may change from emerging market to developed market status during the life of the target fund, the countries mentioned above are indicative only and may change.
