FUND MANAGER'S COMMENTS

The Fund's performance for the month of April was 0.24% as compared to its benchmark of 0.28%.

Sovereign bonds rallied in April as Ringgit led most emerging Asian currencies to strengthen against the Dollar following soft US economic data. Throughout the month, there was strong foreign demand for the short-end of the curve due to cheaper implied funding for offshore players to run carry trades. Meanwhile, trading volume for corporate bonds in April saw RM14.7 billion worth of transactions concluded in the market, 13.6% higher than the previous month's RM13 billion in transactions. Focus was mainly in the government guaranteed ("GG") as market players continue to demonstrate caution with more issuances slated in the pipeline. Credit spreads widened for the long end while the short end saw credit compression.

The next Monetary Policy Committee ("MPC") meeting on 7th May 2015 is expected to see Bank Negara Malaysia ("BNM") keeping its Overnight Policy Rate ("OPR") unchanged at 3.25%. However, market is expected to scrutinize the Monetary Policy Statements ("MPC") closely for any signs of monetary policy change in the near term. Nonetheless, we expect BNM to maintain the OPR at its current level barring any Gross Domestic Product ("GDP") growth shocks, despite rate cuts by other central banks in the region.

With the support in the sovereign bonds, we expect credit spread to tighten as players switch into corporate bonds as alternative to sovereign bond. As such, we aim to be fully invested with concentration on selective corporate bonds for yield pickup.
