FUND MANAGER'S COMMENTS

- Global stocks fell in most major currencies except sterling in September. Investors were concerned that rising Covid-19 infections in the US and Europe could force nations worldwide to re-impose lockdowns. In Europe, the UK unveiled new measures to limit contagion, failing which more stringent restrictions would be applied.
- Simmering geopolitical tensions also sapped risk appetite as US President Donald Trump again blamed China for the pandemic and called for it to be held accountable. In response, Chinese leader Xi Jinping said the country did not intend to start a Cold War with anyone.
- Separately, the US Federal Reserve warned that the nascent recovery could stall without further fiscal stimulus. The European Central Bank reiterated that it was ready to ease policy further if needed.
- In fund-related news, Spanish clothing retailer Inditex returned to profitability in the July-quarter as it gradually reopened most of its physical stores after movement restrictions were eased. Robust online sales also helped the group recover from the previous quarter's losses.
- Meanwhile, Swiss healthcare company Roche received an emergency-use authorisation from US regulators for its test kit to help medical personnel differentiate between the Covid-19, influenza A and B viruses.
- Elsewhere, American chip maker Intel received approval to continue selling some products to China's Huawei Technologies. The authorities had banned the latter from dealing with companies operating in the US on national security concerns.
- There were no major portfolio moves during the month.

RISKS

All investment carries some form of risks. The potential key risks include but are not limited to the following:

Market risk	Market risk refers to potential losses that may arise from changes in the market prices of the Shariah-compliant equities that the target fund invests in. Prices of the Shariah-compliant equities will fluctuate in response to various factors, for example, events or news that relates to the Shariah-compliant equities as well as general market or economic conditions. In mitigating this risk, Aberdeen Islamic will invest in various sectors, thus the collapse of any particular sector would not have a major adverse impact on the value of the target fund.
Stock specific risk	Any drop in the price of a particular Shariah-compliant stock held by the target fund may affect the unit price of the target fund adversely. This risk can be mitigated by investing in a wide range of Shariah-compliant equities in different sectors, thus spreading the element of risk.
Concentration risk	This risk refers to the risk that the target fund invests a substantial portion of its assets in a particular sector or geographical area which may cause the target fund to be more susceptible to adverse economic events affecting that particular industry or region. This risk is mitigated through the diversification process that Aberdeen Islamic will employ in the management of the target fund whereby the target fund will hold a diversified portfolio of Shariah-compliant equities across various sectors and countries.
Reclassification of Shariah status risk	This risk refers to the risk that the currently held Shariah-compliant equities in the portfolio of the target fund may be reclassified as Shariah non-compliant during the periodic review of the securities by the SACSC, the Shariah Adviser or the Shariah Boards of the relevant Islamic indices. If this occurs, Aberdeen Islamic will take the necessary steps to dispose of such securities. A stock may be reclassified as being Shariah non-compliant, for example, if the company decides to venture into businesses that do not comply with the Shariah and this is beyond the control of Aberdeen Islamic. The impact of this risk on the value of the target fund is mitigated through the diversification process (as described under concentration risk above) that Aberdeen Islamic will employ in the management of the target fund. When the target fund holds a diversified portfolio of Shariah-compliant equities across various sectors and countries, a reclassification of any one of those Shariah-compliant equities (which means that the target fund will have to dispose of the said investment) will have less of an impact on the target fund as the target fund will still have in its portfolio other high quality Shariah-compliant equities to enable it to meet its objective.
Shariah-compliant warrants risk	The price, performance and liquidity of Shariah-compliant warrants are typically linked to the underlying Shariah-compliant equities and therefore subject to those risks. However, the price, performance and liquidity of such Shariah-compliant warrants will generally fluctuate more than the underlying Shariah-compliant equities because of the greater volatility of the warrants market.

RISKS (CONTINUED)

Currency risk

The NAV attributable to a class of units expressed in a particular currency may be affected favourably or unfavourably by exchange control regulations or changes in the exchange rates between the Ringgit Malaysia (i.e., the base currency of the target fund) and those currencies. When the base currency and the currency of a particular class of units are different, unfavourable movements against those units in foreign exchange rates may affect the value of those units. The valuations of international Shariah-compliant equities owned by the target fund (i.e. those companies owned that are listed outside of Malaysia) may also be affected favourably or unfavourably by exchange control regulations or changes in the exchange rates between the Ringgit Malaysia (i.e., the base currency of the target fund) and the currencies that these equities are quoted in on their respective resident stock exchanges.

Emerging countries and developing markets risk

In emerging markets, the legal, judicial and regulatory infrastructure is still developing and there are more legal uncertainties both for the local market participants and their overseas counterparts. Some markets carry significant risks for investors. Investors should therefore ensure that they understand the relevant risks involved by seeking independent professional investment advice before investing. The target fund will invest a minimum of 1% in emerging markets. The emerging market countries that the target fund will initially invest in will be Korea, Taiwan and Brazil. As the countries' classification may change from emerging market to developed market status during the life of the target fund, the countries mentioned above are indicative only and may change.
