FUND MANAGER'S COMMENTS

In November 2016, the Fund increased 0.14%, underperforming the benchmark by 131 basis points. We were overweight in India, Indonesia and Philippines and underweight in Korea and Taiwan. Sector-wise, we were overweight in Oil & Gas and Telecommunications and underweight in Technology and Utilities. Year-to-date, the Fund is up 1.19%, underperforming the benchmark by 742 basis points.

Topical issues during November were: Impact of Trump's victory on financial markets, OPEC's meeting in Vienna to curb oil production and demonetization in India. Bond yields rose globally post the US Presidential election, led by expectations of rising inflation and fiscal stimulus in the US. US stocks outperformed, at the expense of Emerging markets. OPEC agreed to a production cut, sending oil price higher to within our forecast of USD 50-60/barrel for 2017E. After stabilizing for most parts of the year, China's foreign reserves resumed its downward trend to USD 3.12tr in October, a reduction of USD 45bn from September. The Chinese yuan depreciated by 1.6% during the month, contributing to the overall decline of 5.7% year-to-date.

We remain buyers of the markets, especially on dips, and intend to be fully invested. In terms of portfolio construction, we adopt a sector-neutral approach, with focus on stock-selection as the primary driver of alpha. Special focus is on stock ideas related to e-commerce, sharing economies, energy and basic materials. In terms of country preference, we prefer China, India and Indonesia, while remaining cautious on Thailand and Philippines.
