FUND MANAGER'S COMMENTS

With major central banks holding interest rates steady in July and foreign outflows from the MGS market stabilised, we expect MGS market to continue to be supported by local institution demand. There were also some foreign inflows, driven by attractive Malaysian bond yields and measures recently introduced by Bank Negara to improve onshore trading and liquidity. Hence, we expect more stability in the market going forward. We see opportunities to invest in higher yielding sukuk, both in government bonds and high grade corporate sukuk. We may also take the opportunity to switch some Government Investment Issue and government guaranteed sukuk into high quality corporate sukuk with higher yields. We aim to keep a duration of around 5 - 6 years, while investing in high grade and more liquid papers.
